About

The idea for the platform began inside a student GroupMe called “The BlackSideIllini” (created by Starr & Daniel) where students shared resources, asked questions, and helped each other find services around campus.

When someone asked for a barber, hairstylist, photographer, or other service, the answers often came quickly—but they were buried within thousands of messages. For business owners to secure the opportunity, they had to see the message immediately and jump in before the conversation moved on.
